Dear Mr. Brown:

Over the years I have told you of our efforts to develop an article on doctor-patient communications in the context of a patient suffering an environmental hypersensitivity disorder. I am now pleased to report to you that an article on the subject has been prepared and submitted for publication in the Ontario Medical Review. I expect we will see it in a month or so, and when it comes out I will send you a copy. This is our effort to sensitize physicians on how they may inadvertently blame the victim. I hope it will do the trick.

Sincerely,

John Krauser, MA
Associate Director
